摘要

No doubt, we are facing with the aging society, the long-term care about elder man had become the serious problem. However, with the changing of the life style, Taiwan industry and the structure of the economy had dramatically changed, the female have more educational level and they are willing to be employed increasingly. Under this situation, the lacking of the elder care resources had forced us to emphasis. Although our government deregulate the foreign caretakers which mostly come from the Asia country to care the inability elder people, female caretakers haven't to get responsibility of taking care the elders day by day. The Hsinchu city had been facing with the aging society since 1997. According to the result of government's statistics, this city had been employed more and more elder foreign caretakers in Hsinchu since 2001. Besides, Hsinchu city also had serious problem to manage the long-term care's institution for inability. To sum up, under these two conditions, that's the really reason why we have more and more foreign caretakers in Hsinchu city. Therefore, the study chose this city as the example, using survey and interview research method, and presenting the reality from the policy stakeholder's perspectives.
