摘要

Slip & fall incidences are causes for major occupational safety & health events globally. Based on the statistics from the Labor Inspection Annual Report of the Council of Labor Affairs, slips & falls are among the top three incidences on workplaces in Taiwan starting 2006. In this research, the sentence cases of the law suit related to slips & falls from courts in Taiwan during 2000 to 2012 were collected and analyzed. The scenarios, results, and cost to the victims, employers, and the society for such cases were analyzed. The results demonstrate that the slip & fall incidences mostly happened at the places such as restaurant kitchens, factories, grocery stores, entertainment sites, military camps, hospitals, schools, etc. In most cases of the law suit related to slips & falls, the wet floor of places and incaution of victims are the main reasons causing injuries. To convince the court to announce a verdict in victim' s preference, the more powerful proofs are needed.
