摘要

Adducing various analytical reports during a certain period of time in Taiwan, the auther hoped that these reports could help people to recognize the political speeches. He also discussed their follow-up judgement of truth and falseness. He found that the subjectivity of political speeches often initiated the related judgement of truth and falseness. However, subjectivity of the community had also actively constructed the phenomena we observed. And in turn the community subjectivity in phenomena became the final return place of judgement of truth and falseness.
