

Strategic Distance Education For Universities Based On Open Courseware

柯宇謙, 葛義

Information Management

Computer Science and Informatics

eugene@mi.chu.edu.tw

Abstract

With the help of distance education, a university can enhance all phases of its relationship with knowledge seekers. The educational mission makes it possible for such universities using distance education to determine not only when opportunities exist for strategic applications, but also what specific applications should be developed. In this research we use MIT's mission statement, 'advance knowledge and educate students', to illustrate how strategic distance education systems can be analyzed and designed

Keyword : distance education (DE); educational mission; strategic distance education systems (SDEs)