

Write an argumentative essay of four to five paragraphs in which you discuss whether you agree or disagree with the following statement:

The future status of English as the global language is assured.

In your essay, you must present two or three reasons, showing either you are for or against the aforementioned statement. Before you submit your composition, you are recommended to check:

1. whether you have a clearly stated thesis in your article and whether you have a well written topic sentence in each paragraph.
2. whether you use punctuation marks correctly.
3. whether you use transitional signals to move from one idea to the next.
4. whether you offer sufficient and convincing evidences to support your arguments.
5. whether you have an introductory paragraph and a concluding paragraph.
